Today, in the age of technologization and globalization, there is an intensification of the process of finding effective conditions, mechanisms of educating young people capable of dialogue with other cultures. The history of society shows that the prosperity of society depends not only on the economy and technology and not even on the general culture, but on the word culture. Indeed, the training of a versatile specialist with a high level of culture (including the word culture) is the main education problem today. The realities of the modern stage of society development, the language situation in Kazakhstan – multinational, with a centuries-old history, in which people, nations, cultures are intertwined, now dictate the need to develop basic methodical principles and approaches to the formation of communicative language personality. To preserve and multiply spiritual and cultural values is the main purpose of the work on the program article of the president «Ruhani Zhangyru» – the way to the future.
